

Magic The Gathering

Written by Anthony Osman

Friday, 26 July 2013 09:09 - Last Updated Friday, 26 July 2013 09:13

I have acquired my old cards from my Mums' shed. This is kinda cool because I love the illustration of these little devils and I can still remember the rules of play.

I will not be collecting them again.

If I do buy a booster pack it will be for novelty's sake.

for me it would be a part of nostalgia and looking back to being a teenager.

My Zombie deck needs a little tweaking but it still looks as though it would kick ass.

I cannot be really hording more crap as it is hard to move around with tones of stuff.

I expect the cards will be finding a new home before the year is out.

Magic The Gathering

Written by Anthony Osman

Friday, 26 July 2013 09:09 - Last Updated Friday, 26 July 2013 09:13

So sorting out some ebay listings has to be a priority really.

There are plenty of treasures to let go of.

If I can gather my life of bits and bobs down into one trunk and rucksack, that would be fantastic.

Optimistic yes, there is a lot of stuff.

And book will be very hard to get rid of.

What are you holding onto?